

Improved Formulation for UVPHR 170

Opaque white UVPHR 170 is used for printing on plastic packaging and is characterised by good adhesion and a nice gloss level.

By adapting the formulation, it has now been possible to further improve the surface stability and resistance to mechanical stress.

This also allows the process stability to be further optimised. Apart from the improvement of surface and resistance, no other changes are expected. The change will therefore be implemented with immediate effect.

Date of Change-Over

This change becomes effective starting with batch 118 (immediately). You will find an additional remark on the label stating:

„Attention: Improved Formula“
